

the American Red Cross Assessment Teams were met. CCA provided its services repairing over 16 homes. While CCA finished its operations in Volusia County, Washington and Jackson counties were hit by tornadoes. Continuing its tradition of assistance CCA responded and coordinated its efforts with the American Red Cross and Washington County EOC director Roger Hagan and Jackson County Director Rodney Andreasen. CCA was able to provide assistance to over 20 families.

Time and time again, CCA has responded when called and worked through existing emergency management infrastructures to supplement services to disaster survivors. Indeed, the Christian Contractors Association is a model organization whose works are worthy of much recognition. The FCCS proudly nominates the Christian Contractors Association for the Governor's Hurricane Conference "Distinguished Service Award".

The consideration given to this application is greatly appreciated.
