Dear Scott,

I cannot begin to tell you how overwhelmed I was as you went about checking my home inside and out trying to solve my water problems.

As you and Bill drove off, I cried, and thanked God, and my dear friend Jean for sending you and Bill into my life.

I have sent your brochure and a letter off to Stan, Roland's brother in Mass. I am sure I will hear back from him in the near future. As I told him, I have been searching for an area of volunteer work that I could do where I could feel happy and fulfilled. I truly believe I have found my niche with Christian Contractors.

I left the corporate rat race in 1983, and started cleaning homes and offices in N.H. in 1984. Many of my customers were elderly and widowed. Not only do these people need odd jobs done around their homes, but I found a great need for
